RICHLAND ALL SET FOR DRAFT REGISTRATION

Election Board Officials Tell Governor Machinery Geared For Action.

PLEA BRINGS RESPONSE

Dozens of Volunteers Contact Board, Express Willingness To Serve In Precincts.

Richland county election board officials today told Gov. John W. Bricker that the machinery is ready in the county for registering young men Wednesday under the selective service law.

A. F. Porter, clerk of the election board, said registrars have been appointed and thousands of cards and booklets of instruction have been counted and bundled for distribution to the registration booth workers at a meeting Monday night at the courthouse.

Porter said the board has received dozens of letters and calls from persons offering to help with the registration work Wednesday. The board called for volunteers yesterday after deciding that two persons would not be enough in a registering place.

Registrars in each booth will receive 150 registration cards, 125 smaller certificates of registration which will be carried by the registrant, and 100 booklets giving information about the draft which will be distributed to registrants.

Get Instructions.

All of the registrars assigned to duty will attend an instruction at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the courthouse to receive last-minute instructions from the election board.

Men from 21 to 35 must register Wednesday at their regular voting place between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. Each registrant will receive a number to correspond with one sent to Washington where a big lottery will be conducted about Nov. 1 to choose the first draftees.

Three draft boards will go to work in the county the day after registration, counting and indexing them and assigning serial numbers for the lottery.

It is expected that only a small number of the more than 10,000 men expected to register in the county will be called for army training this fall. Others will be called during the winter and next spring.

Duck Hunting to Be Permitted at Charles Mill Dam

Duck hunters in this vicinity can start polishing up their equipment any day now because duck hunting will be permitted at Charles Mill dam, south of route 30, beginning Wednesday and continuing until Dec. 11.

According to County Game Protector C. I. Kimmel, who made the announcement today, a checking station will be instuted at the building near the boat dock on route 30, where all hunters will be required to register.

Kimmel said that duck blinds may be built by hunters but permission must be obtained from officials in charge of the checking station. Each hunter building a blind will be given a number.

Hunters may shoot ducks at the dam from sunrise until 4 p. m. on any day during the season Kimmel cautioned, however, that hunters should not rely on calendars or almanacs for time of sunrise. A chart stating the exact time of sunrise on each day will be posted at the checking station and places where license are sold.

OUT OF THE PAST

BOWLING GREEN, Ky.—(AP)—The Roosevelt-Willkie Presidential campaign was forgotten as more than 150 men 75 or over gathered for the annual Warren County Old Men's Reunion. They were interested more in the heated Hayes-Tilden race of 1876.

Sets Curfew Hour for Five Halloweeners

Judge Warns 'Drastic Action' Will Follow New Offenses.

Warned by Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court that "the next offense will bring more drastic action," five youthful Mansfield Halloween pranksters were paroled to their parents today and told to stay off the streets after 9 p. m.

Arrested by police Wednesday night, the youths, from 12 to 17 years old, were accused of throwing tomatoes at a home on Lily street, putting scouring powder on an automobile, breaking a window with an air rifle, and attacking Roy McPeak, 97 Waring avenue, taking his shoes and 20 cents in change.

Judge Anderson said the boys, all first offenders, would be watched by police. He asked that the youths be brought back into court when any of them violate the curfew order or damages property.

"The boys were told to stay away from the homes and property they damaged and not to congregate on the street after dark," Judge Anderson said.

The youths were the first to be taken into court in the annual police and county authorities' campaign against Halloween vandalism.

Parents of the boys agreed to pay for the damage to an automobile owned by P. L. McNeal, 548 Park avenue west, who said the grill work on his car was damaged and the body was scratched by scouring powder.

Parents of another youth in the group said they would pay for replacing a window in the home of G. O. Gamber, 102 West Dickson avenue, which was broken by an air rifle pellet.

Both Police Chief Meade K. Bates and Sheriff E. P. Long warned that pranksters who are caught damaging property will be taken into court and parents will be liable for the damage.

RULES FOR CITY

Appeals Court Upholds Sewer Rental Ordinance.

The Fifth district appeals court today upheld the Mansfield sewer rental ordinance in a test case taken to the higher court from the Richland county common pleas court which upheld the ordinance.

The action was started several months ago by Mrs. Druzella Gatton, Mansfield, who filed a suit against the city after water and sewer services were cut off at her home for non-payment of a water bill.

Counsel for Mrs. Gatton contended that the city had no right to shut off both services for nonpayment of a bill for one service.

The appeals court decision said the ordinance providing for shutting off both services is "not unreasonable." The case was heard several weeks ago by the appeals court.

FACES CHARGE

Mansfielder Accused of Driving While Intoxicated.

Joseph Brozinski, 321 Park avenue west, will appear in Municipal court Oct. 18 to answer a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Brozinski was arrested by city police last night when officers in the police cruiser observed him driving up Main street, zig-zagging across the street and crashing red lights. He asked that his case be continued to permit him retaining an attorney.

'Victory Smiles at C. of C. Dinner

It was with "smiles of victory" that the Chamber of Commerce membership campaign workers celebrated their new all-time high enrollment at a "Victory" dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night. Shown at top, from left to right, are Paul M. Ebot, honorary chairman of the drive, J. B. Conard, co-chairman, R. C. Remy, chairman of the mebreship committe, and John G. Routzon, secretary-manager. Pictured at the left are L. R. Hamilton, left, and Louis J. Ott, jr., right, first of the two-man teams to make their quota. At right are W. B. Ford, left, and Charles Kafer, right, who made the most points in the campaign. Besides the winners shown above, 29 other workers received prizes.

FDR PREPARES DEFENSE TALK

Speech Tonight at Dayton To Be Broadcast to Latin America.

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN ENROUTE TO DAYTON, O.—President Roosevelt pushed deep into Ohio today to spruce up his knowledge of "how this great defense program of ours is going," as a prelude to a radio address to all the western hemisphere on preparedness.

He was to speak at Dayton tonight at 9 p. m., eastern standard time, over all domestic networks and by short wave to Latin America.

In a grave period of war and world chaos he selected Columbus Day to amplify, aides said, the theme of "all for one and one for all" in inter-American relations and to report on what

HOMEY TOUCH FOR BARRACKS

Lily Pons Likes Idea of Women Doing Army Housework.

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— Lily Pons, the petite singer, expressed belief today that women should be permitted to help out around the barracks for Uncle Sam's conscripts.

"Why not?" she asked interviewers. "Why shouldn't women keep house for their men in camp like they do at home?

"A man's place is not in the kitchen. We could provide real home cooking for the boys, maybe hang curtains and provide domestic atmosphere. I like the idea."

1,200 Hear Bricker at Party Rally

"Doing an honest, fair, and economical job in government is the only way to preserve our 'democratic form of government," Gov. John W. Bricker told an overflow crowd last night at a Republican rally at party headquarters in Mansfield.

Gov. Bricker, seeking re-election, spoke on a program with Congressman-at-Large George Bender of Cleveland and J. Harry McGregor, 17th district congress-

NO PLANE DOWN

Flares Seen From Airplane Just 'Observation Lights.'

Flares dropped by an airplane over the northern edge of the city shortly after 10 p. m. yesterday were described today by James R. Harrington, airport manager, as observation flares "probably dropped from an army training ship."

"They were not regulation flares such as are used for emergency landings," Harrington said. "Those burn approximately two minutes while the ones reported seen last night were visible only for a few seconds."

An airport attendant said he saw only one white flare but there were calls at the airport reporting a red and green flare. Harrington said there was no indication that the plane was in distress. "On the basis of what has been reported to us," he added, "I am inclined to think it was an army plane on maneuvers."

WILLKIE HITS DEFENSE TRIP

Declares Roosevelt Visit to Ohio Political and Paid For by Public

(By Associated Press)

ENROUTE WITH WILLKIE TO ALBANY, N. Y. — Wendell L. Willkie criticized the Roosevelt administration today as "defeatist" and argued that such a government "can never win any battle against unemployment or against any foreign foe."

Winding up his four-day campaign into New England, the Republican presidential nominee declared that New Dealers believe "the era of expansion is over."

"The government that does not believe that its people can be employed will never see to it that they are employed," he said in a prepared speech for a Lawrence, Mass., audience.

"A government that preached defeat can never win any battle against unemployment or against

Newspaperman Wears 'Kicks' For Many Years.

KANSAS CITY (AP) Charley Blood, veteran newspaper man, took time out to buy a new pair of shoes, commenting that those he had on showed a little wear.

Blood mentioned he was one of those persons who alternate shoes daily.

"Yes," said the salesman. "The other pair was bought in 1932."

EXPERT SEES NEW SUCCESS FOR FUEHRER

Rumanian Occupation Gives Springboard For Drive To Mediterranean.

AWAIT RED REACTION

Soviet-Turk Understanding Against Nazi Invasion Believed Reached.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Expert)

With Hitler's military occupation of strategically placed Rumania, we can say that the great Axis offensive in the battle of the Mediterranean is under way, and that the Nazi fuehrer has scored a vastly important success.

He has by a series of crafty political schemes and threats—and without firing a shot—secured a vital military, air and naval base for further operations in the bloody struggle which is beginning

But what is of even greater moment is the fact that he has at the same time acquired outright the Rumanian oil which will act like a blood-transfusion on his waning supplies. Without oil the modern military machine cannot run, and Germany's acquisition of this supply is a hard blow to Britain.

As the conflict starts to rumble down through the Balkans—that cockpit of southeastern Europe which has been a battle ground for untold centuries—one of the most significant developments to my mind rests in that Turkish official broadcast last night, warning the Germans that any attempt to make a thrust across Turkey and Syria would be met with "very strong resistance."

"This road across Anatolia," the Turks served notice, "is guarded by 2,000,000 bayonets."

Now the point of this is that Turkey, which has been taking its lead from Russia, would never (in my view) have ventured to make such a defiant threat had it not been sanctioned by the Soviet. I find support for that viewpoint in the fact that the Muscovite ambassador conferred with the Turkish premier not long before the broadcast.

This doesn't necessarily mean that Russia is preparing to join the Turks and oppose the Axis by arms at this precise juncture. It does mean, to my mind, that the Soviet is bitterly antagonistic to these Nazi moves in the Balkans and that there certainly is a possibility of war between Russia and Germany.

Stalin and Hitler are matching wits in a historic drama which has taken them right to the verge of war.

CONVICTED

Reputed Gambling Overlord Held For Tax Evasion.

CHICAGO — (AP) — William R. Johnson, pictured by federal prosecutors as the overlord of Chicago's organized gambling, was convicted today on charges of evading income taxes.

Five of eight co-defendants were convicted on charges of aiding Johnson in his efforts to defraud the government of $1,887,864 in taxes on a 1936-39 income of $3,377,615.

Johnson was convicted on all five counts lodged against him, as were Jack Semmers, James A. Hartigan, John M. Flannigan ad William F. Kelly.

Conviction makes them liable to maximum prison terms of 22 years and $10,000 fines. Stuart Brown, another defendant, was convicted on two counts while Edward Wait, Andrew J. Creighton and Reginald Mackey were acquitted.

German Troops Heading East, Take Rumania

Planes Roar Over Bucharest, Mobile Forces Rumble Through Streets, and Swastika Flies From Hotel Windows.

(By Associated Press)

Truckloads of steel-helmeted Nazi infantrymen rumbled through the streets of Bucharest today as German military penetration of Rumania expanded, and anxious Turkey, ready for war, looked towards Moscow for Soviet reaction to Germany's drive to the east.

In western Europe, the battle of Britain went on in the air and on the sea. Nazi warplanes roared across the channel against London and a German torpedo boat flotilla was reported to have fought an engagement off the Isle of Wight with British submarines, torpedo boats and destroyers.

The presence of the German troops in Bucharest gave the impression of Nazi occupation of the capital. Planes roared overhead, and the swastika was unfurled at many hotels.

The official Turkish radio declared last night that "the Balkans and even Soviet Russia are on the brink of unexpected war."

At the same time German sources in Bucharest said the establishment of an Axis air patrol over Rumania's closely-guarded oil fields once again had seized the initiative from the British, and predicted a prompt break in relations between Rumania and Britain.

The implication was that the Nazis acted because of a belief Britain has designs on rich oil supplies now under the wing of the German air force.

Nazi airmen attacking London reported today huge fires were raging in the city, but British dispatches said the German attacks lacked the intensity of previous assaults.

Bombs falling near the country home of American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy outside London smashed a number of cottages. The ambassador was uninjured.

RAF planes struck through fog into Germany and at Nazi bases on the French side of the English

BATTLE: U-Boat Flotilla Meets British Naval Forces

BERLIN—(INS)—A heavy engagement between a German U-boat squadron and British naval forces was announced officially today.

A German submarine flotilla, it was stated, carried out a sortie into waters around the Isle of Wight from an unidentified continental port and engaged in battle with British naval forces near the island.

(Editor's note: The Isle of Wight is situated off the south coast of England below the great port of Southampton.)

Results of the battle are not yet fully known, the announcement said, but preliminary reports indicated that some British destroyers and torpedo boats had been torpedoed by the Nazi U-boats.

The encounter was the first concentrated engagement known to have occurred between a German U-boat flotilla and British naval units.

Simultaneously it was announced that strong squadrons of German bombers took off today for fresh raids against London, southern England and the Midlands after the German air force carried out reconnaissance flights at dawn.

The reconnoitering expeditions followed German bombing attacks during the night against London, Liverpool and Manchester.

In addition, a German announcement claimed, a large section of a troop camp in the south of England was destroyed by bombs.

Seven British Hurricane and Spitfire fighting planes were shot down, this announcement stated, while two German planes were lost.

The vast extent of the German night attacks against London, as compared with daylight bombing raids, was indicated in an official announcement, which claimed that 200 tons of bombs were dropped on London during the night, while only 12 tons were dropped during the day.

An authoritative German statement, meanwhile, claimed that 3,950 British planes have

BURIED: Uncounted Dead In Bombed Hotel Being Removed

LONDON—(AP)—Bombs smashed houses in London today in a mid-morning raid that set off the city's 199th alarm of the air war after a night of scattered attacks in which uncounted dead were feared buried in the wreckage of a Liverpool hotel.

Rescue crews found several persons alive in the Liverpool hotel, struck squarely by a big bomb. But the rest of the staff and guests were somewhere beneath the heap of rubble.

To the battle of bombs was added the war of guns. Long range British and German batteries on opposite sides of the English channel thundered for more than three hours in their longest bombardment. Big shells exploding at three-minutes intervals shook the coasts of southeastern England and Nazi-held France.

From bases back of the smoking guns the Royal Air Force roared eastward for new blows at the Nazi concentration points along the coast. Bombs were dropped near Calais and Cape Gris Nez lighthouse, where two big German coastal batteries were firing.

Although London, as usual, bore the brunt of the overnight air raids on England, 12 other districts were attacked. A communique said these were in Scotland, Wales, northwestern, northeastern and southern England.

Casualties were described as "light" in London, and "very light" elsewhere.

Three British fighting planes pursued a group of Dornier bombers which attacked Liverpool. Three of the raiders were reported shot down. The British reported five other German planes destroyed and nine British planes lost.

A German aviator who jumped by parachute from his damaged plane was captured in the mountains of Wales.

DEPUTIES QUIT

Sheriff Closes Office Door When Funds Run Out.

IRONTON —(AP)— Sheriff Bernard R. Monte tacked a "closed" sign on his office at the court house here today after receiving the resignation of all his deputies.

Unpaid for six weeks, the deputies quit last night after the Lawrence county commissioners rejected the sheriff's appeal for a supplemental appropriation to pay his force.

Here's Lineup for Sunday Edition

When you get your copy of tomorrow's News-Journal you'll know that the honeymoon isn't over for the Sunday edition and its readers any more than it is for the five early summer brides who are pictured in their new homes after four months of marriage.

You'll find an interview with a Butler man who spent many years among the primitive peoples of Alaska and who has just recently published a book of his experiences.

From the hectic days when Mansfield had religious riots and tar-and-feather parties comes an echo in a letter from a pastor who bears the city no grudge although he was once driven from its limits.

Progress at Mansfield airport and a newly developed handcraft project at Hedges school are outlined in picture-stories.

There's another in the Do You Remember series and other local features along with full local, national, and world news coverage.

And inside the bright wrapper of colored comics you'll discover such notable by-lines as Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen, Emily Post, Dr. Garry C. Myers, John Selby, Dorothy Kilgallen, B. C. Forbes, and Vina Delmar.

U. S. Grants Economic Favors Long Sought By Soviet

FEAR RUSSIA SOON TO SIGN NIPPON PACT

Bars Lifted For Transport Of Oil and Purchase of Machine Tools.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Two developments today further complicated the already complex chart of Soviet Russia's relations with the United States.

1. U. S. Government agencies revealed that two economic favors that Moscow has been seeking here for several months had been granted.

While the maritime commission announced that Russia would be allowed to charter pproximately 100,000 tons of tankers to transport oil from California to Vladivostok, Col. R. L. Maxwell, defense commission export ontrol officer, raised the bars for 37,000,000 worth of machine tools to leave America for the U. S. S. R.

2. At the same time, however, administration officials, on the basis of reliable reports, found reason to believe that Moscow soon would sign a non-aggresion pact with Japan, this country's possible enemy in the Pacific.

While the signing of such a pact would not imply direct Russian help to Japan—and indeed it is understood here that Moscow is reserving the right to continue sending war supplies to China even after such a treaty is concluded — Far Eastern experts pointed out that it probably would aid Tokio in one sense.

For the last decade Japan has kept between 300,000 and 500,000 troops in north Manchuria as a bulwark against a possible Soviet invasion. Several times during that period Moscow and Tokio have been on the brink of war.

Now, it is pointed out, if Japan and Russia, with full faith and confidence, sign a non-aggression treaty, the Japanese general staff may feel that it can safely withdraw a large part of these troops freeing them for use against China or any other country with which the nation was at war. To this extent Japan would be strengthened militarily.

Diplomatic realists here can understand how the Kremlin, with no increased ardor for its ancient Japanese enemies, may regard a non-aggression pact as desirable now. Although Moscow is keeping very quiet—as it usually does in times of dangerous crises—observers here believe that Joseph Stalin cannot but be intenseiy worried by Adolf Hitler's new "push to the east" by way of the Balkans.

Hitler's present invasion of Rumania, which may not stop there but go on to Bulgaria and Turkey, places his armies dangerously near the Dardanelles, sole entrance to Black sea, Russia's "lake." Despite the tenuous Russo-German pact of August, 1939, Russia's leaders probably have not forgotten Der Fuehrer's oft-repeated statement that Germany's territorial destiny lies in the east, particularly the Soviet Ukraine.

Judge Lenient In Case of Motorist, 'Crawling' Truck

Judge G E Kalbfleisch today suspended a fine of $5 and costs in a traffic arres and expressed sympathy for the motorist who is forced to drive behind a truck driving three miles an hour, with no place to pass.

Jennings A. Riling R D 1, Lexington, was arrested by state highway patrol officers last night on route 42 south after he had passed a truck on the right side going up Sandy Hill.

Riling said he had driven behind the truck for three quarters of a mile on the up grade, and that the truck was taking up more than half of the road and that in order to get around the truck without endangering other motorists, he had driven out on the berm at the right.

Patrolman J. A. Gosling said that the truck's wheels were inside the white line and he was not guilty of passing on the right.

State Draft Quotas Announced In 24 Hours

Author Louis Bromfield will have Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., as his pinchhitter at a Democratic rally in Mt. Vernon Oct. 17. Bromfield was to have been the speaker at the rally, according to Democratic leaders here, but discovered that a previous engagement in New York City would prevent his appearance at the rally. Miss Mary Newcomer, president of the Richland county Young Democratic League, said today that the younger Roosevelt, son and namesake of the president, will appear in Bromfield's place. The author will attend a dinner in New York City which is being given for the writers and literary lights which have been exiled from Europe and forced to flee leaving all of their possessions behind.

If any Mansfielder notices V. H. Oberlander, vocational director of the Mansfield schools and head of the national defense program here, looking a bit sleepy these days, don't chide him about it because he's got a good reason. At present, with the National defense program under way at the high school, the vocational department is open 20 hours a day, and when the next two classes are added next week the department will be in full swing 22 hours a day.

The G. O. P. rally in Mansfield last night turned out to be something of a wedding announcement too. When the county candidates were introduced, Philip Wolfe explained that Atty. John L. Catlett, candidate for state representative, and Kenneth Shaffer, seeking the county engineer's post, will march up the aisle after election, "regardless of the outcome," while Mayor William J. Locke arrived late at the meeting after giving his daughter, Gerry, in marriage.

OBJECTORS

Theological Students Prepare Draft Statement.

NEW YORK—(AP)—A score of young men students of Union theological seminary made known today their intentions not to comply "in any way" with the selective service act.

At the same time, Col. Arthur V. McDermott, New York selective service director, announced machinery had been set up to round up draft evaders. He said a bureau of inspection would apprehend eligible men failing to register and turn them over to federal authorities for prosecution.

In a signed statement which the students said would be filed with the "draft board" Oct. 16, they declared, "to live in harmony with the will of God . . . we must obey our conscience before we obey the state."

BEN VISIONED 'CHUTE TROOPS

BOSTON — (AP) — Benjamin Franklin's brilliant mind is credited with first conceiving the value of a "parachute army" similar to that now employed by Germany.

Historic papers disclose that Franklin wrote in 1784:

"Five thousand balloons, capable of raising two men each, could not cost more than five ships of the line, and where is the prince who can afford so to cover his country with troops for its defense as that 10,000 men descending from the clouds might not in many places do an infinite deal of mischief before a force could be collected together to repel them?"

BREAKS LEG IN FALL ON STREET

Mansfielder Hurt as He Flees Suspected Assailant.

Edward A. Pagnard, 67 Chestnut street, was taken to General hospital last evening suffering with a fractured right leg and abrasions about the nose as the result of a fall.

Pagnard told police that he was walking along Surry road when a colored man approached him threateningly. Pagnard started to run and fell into a hole in the road, breaking his leg and battering his face.

He said the colored man approached him and went through his pockets, finding only a ring of keys, which he dropped a short distance away. Pagnard crawled out of the hole and dragged himself over to North Main street where a woman found him on the sidewalk. An ambulance was called and he was taken to the hospital.

DRIVE ON RATS

Zoo Buys Automobile To Aid In Pest Campaign.

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—An old automobile has been purchased by the St. Louis Zoo to help in a campaign to exterminate rats on the zoo grounds.

The "jallopy" is not intended to be used to run down the rodents. Its function is to furnish carbon monoxide from the car's exhaust to kill the rats.

A pipe, one end of which was threaded, was fastened to the exhaust of the car, and a 300-foot piece of hose was attached.

After the apparatus was ready for use, the zoo attendants looked for rat nests. Rats usually burrow a series of runways from each one of which there is a hole for exit. The hose was inserted in one of these holes. Then, as the fumes stirred up a dust smoke that revealed other openings, the holes were immediately covered and packed with ground to keep the deadly fumes in the runways.

As some of the rats in the runways, drugged a bit with the gas, attempted to make their escape, they were finished off with a stiff blow with a stick.

OHIO WORKERS BENEFIT FROM NATIONAL DEFENSE PROGRAM

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Thousands of Ohio workers are benefiting by the rising tempo of national defense.

The state bureau of unemployment compensation reported a 21.7 per cent increase in job placements for the month of September.

Placements numbered 17,195, a total exceeded only by the record high of 17,554 last May. Administrator H. C. Atkinson announced.

Mounting army and navy orders are stimulating the gains, Atkinson said. In the last 15 days of September the army let contracts in Ohio worth $70,322,194, sending army total since June 13 to $114,174,521 and boosting the total defense commitments affecting Ohio during that period.

The navy ordered an additional $1,336,623 worth of equipment during the latter part of September, raising to $56,277,310 its Ohio total since June 13.

Bulk of naval orders went to Cleveland, Hamilton, Cincinnati, Toledo, Youngstown, Canton, Niles and Lorain firms.

A total of 363,428 persons were actively seeking employment through the BUC at the end of September. New benefits paid last month totaled $1,501,680, a 28.9 per cent drop from August.

Defense was the motivation behind a new $1,567,031 appropriation to the National Youth Administration's Ohio division.

Workshop projects, where Ohio youths may prepare for jobs in defense industries, are to be expanded.

Although more than 9,000 youths are employed in that program, 17,000 more await assignment, said State Administrator S. Burns Weston.

COMES BACK

Suicide Victim Returns For Explanation of Act.

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— Police listings of suicides from the Golden Gate Bridge have been subtracted by one.

Listed as a suicide for nearly a month, after his automobile was found abandoned on the span, Charles Bernheim, 36, apparel shop proprietor, walked into police headquarters to clear things up.

"I went out on the bridge fully intending to jump, but after looking down I changed my mind," he explained. "I went to the railroad station instead and bought a ticket to New York. I decided my domestic troubles weren't worth killing myself over."

EMBARRASSED

Fire Chief Starts Blaze In Home Station.

EAST ALTON, Ill. —(AP)— The fire department is still talking about its "most embarrassing moment."

Backing the fire truck into the station after returning from a grass blaze, Chief Ruben Eden hit an electric outlet, causing a short that set the station afire.

BODY FOUND

Judge Wanted For Slaying of Partners Drowned Self.

DETROIT—(INS)—Sought for 11 days or ever since he assertedly shot three men in his office, two fatally, the body of Wayne county common pleas court Judge Robert E. Sage was found in the Detroit river today off Fighting island near Grosse Ile. He had taken his own life by drowning.

The widely known jurist had been the object of a widespread search since the night of Oct. 2 when Ralph Nadell, a business associate, was shot and killed instantly, and Alfred Nadell, another associate, suffered gun wounds from which he died. A third associate, Maurice Smilay, is recovering from gunshot wounds.

CREDIT GIVEN FOR SOLDIERS NOW IN RANKS

About One In 40 Registrants Called to Service In Next Few Months.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The selective service board today planned today to announce within 24 hours the number of men each state will be asked to contribute to the first peace time conscript army.

Officials predicted that the number needed from each state would be far less than generally anticipated. About one man in each 40 who register next Wednesday will be called within the next few months. Only one of each 20 will be called within the next year.

In arriving at the quotas the board has credited the states for the men they have in the army, navy and marines. Additional credits against the quotas will be given for those who volunteer for one year of training.

These quotas probably will be greater than final figures since officials have decided to give the maximum in order that no state will be offended by having its final quota—based on actual registration figures—increased later.

State draft boards today received matrixes from which they will print millions of questionnaires which prospective trainees must fill out after registration. These are entirely different from the single form which each man of draft age must fill out next Wednesday. The questionnaires containing some 60 questions, will be sent out by the local draft boards later.

Persons claiming dependency deferment must fill out two pages of questions. They must list their property, sources of income, and amount of rent they pay. An affidavit by dependents must also be filed.

Only about 2,400,000 of the 16,404,000 who register will be required to fill out the form within the next year.

SLEEP MURDER

Youth Assaults and Strangles 10-Year-Old Sister.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (U.P.) — Psychiatrists today studied Jerry Ratliff, 14, a husky high school sophomore, who said he was "asleep" when he criminally assaulted and strangled his 10-year-old sister, Patricia, in her bedroom last Saturday night.

After denying the crime all week, the boy confessed last night, according to juvenile court Judge W. Emmett Perry. He said he had made the earlier denials because he had been in a daze since his sister was killed, and that his memory was now becoming clearer.

Chief of Detectives Luther Hollums was partially convinced that the boy was telling the truth. He said Jerry had committed the crime while in a state of "hysterical amnesia." Judge Perry sent the boy to a detention home and delayed the hearing for a week or more so that psychiatrists could study him.

The children's bedrooms were across the hall from each other. Their mother, Mrs. Flora Elizabeth Ratliff, was at the movies Saturday night. She found the girl dead in bed Sunday morning.

SIMPSON GIRLS HOLD FIELD DAY

Field Day is being observed today by the Girls' Athletic association of John Simpson Junior high school with the girls' softball tournament taking place, at the school.

Virginia Webber is general manager of the games which are supervised by Miss Martha Thompson, physical education instructor. All girls participating in the tournament will receive points for the awards.

Captains of the various groups are Marjorie Zeigler, Beverly Condon, Katherine Kopchock, Alma Hisky, Peggy Idon, Betty Miller, Ruth Damron, Helen Chweckreff, Marjorie Baker, Mary Ellen Seeburger, Dorothy Henry, Lois Urich, Betty Perman and Mary Birmolin.

Final games will be played next week during the noon hour.

War With Japan? Stop for A Few Moments and Ask Yourself the Reasons Why

—By JANE WILLIAMS

SHALL we go to war or shall we get out of the Pacific? That isn't a question that is getting much consideration from the administration but a lot of individuals are giving it plenty of thought.

Somehow, through some diabolical means, a war consciousness has been built up in the American mind and today the country as a whole accepts the thought of a war with Japan with a feeling of eventually-why-not-now?

If you can divorce yourself from this damnable placidity toward war for a few minutes, just ask yourself WHY? Why are we looking toward a war with Japan? What has Japan done to US or to OUR territory to aggravate us to war?

The fact is that Japan hasn't done anything to us. It is true that the imperialistic and grasping little nation on the far side of the Pacific has turned greedy eyes on British possessions and the rich Dutch islands. It is true that she has a tremendous minority in the Philippines, but the Philippines yowled for their freedom from "imperialistic America" until we gave it to them, effective in 1943.

SO WHAT we are planning to do is go to war to defend British and Dutch possessions in the Pacific, and at the same time warning all other nations to stay away from the Western hemisphere.

My sympathies today are all with the British and I hope that we give them every possible aid—without involving ourselves in the war. But even if your sympathies led you to feel that we should join her in an effort to save England, certainly no one with intelligence can feel that we should fight to save her far flung empire.

It's a fight for raw material, the British proponents argue. But what difference does it make whether we buy them of Britain or of Japan? Certainly that difference, whatever it is, isn't worth thousands of American lives.

Dying for your own country is one thing; dying to protect the British empire is something else again.

MANSFIELDERS who went to see and hear Kenneth Downs, distinguished war correspondent, expecting the dash and glamor of Richard Harding Davis and Floyd Gibbons, not to mention the good looks of Joel McCrea's "Foreign Correspondent," must have been disappointed.

Davis and Gibbons were soldiers of fortune, men in search of thrills and adventure. Downs is of the new crop of war correspondents, those business-like young men who have jobs to do and who go doggedly about doing them.

Foreign correspondents today don't behave as they did in the Graustarkian romances. Today they look and act like serious young business men, keeping rather in the background. They are well-educated and well-bred, but they are about as glamorous as a bank clerk.

Theirs is a difficult task, Downs said—off the record—that foreign news dispatches must be written with the time element in mind and remembering the censors. His stories from the front had to be timely even though they might get into print within 48 hours or not for a week. They were sent by courier back to the military censors who blue-penciled them, and then on to the civil censors, with more blue penciling, and finally to the cable agent.

Downs will go back to London, and the fact that death rains from the skies night and day, is of little consequence. He has a job to do and it happens to be in London.

I LIKE the healthy American spirit which is determined to rout out the Fifth Columnists, but sometimes it gets a little out of hand, as one Mansfield women who was "investigated" this week can tell you.

She is a free lance writer and recently did a story on a Norwalk murder case for a detective magazine. (She writes under a fictitious name so don't try to guess her identity). She went over to Norwalk to get some pictures of the Huron county courthouse and parking her car in front of the building, got out and took several camera shots of the building. A girl in an upper window turned frightened eyes on her and called out excitedly:

"What are you doing down there with a camera? If you don't go away, I'll call the police immediately."

The Mansfield woman thought the girl cukoo but finished her pictures and drove away. As she left she saw the girl write down her license number.

One day this week the Mansfield police department received a letter from the FBI asking them to investigate a certain woman here who had been reported by the sheriff of Huron county. She was described as a "mysterious woman, mysteriously taking pictures of the public buildings of Norwalk."

When the police officer went to the addres he was flabbergasted to find the woman to whom he had given material for "true detective" stories.

It was he who had suggested she go to Norwalk for the pictures.

NAZI TROOPS HEADING EAST, TAKE RUMANIA

channel, co-ordinating their attack with British long-range guns which engaged in a duel for more than three hours with German batteries.

The Turkish official radio discounted Germany's explanation that her troops were to guard Rumanian oil fields and frontiers as "insufficient reason," and warned that 2,000,000 Turkish troops stood between the Nazi troops and Britain's near-eastern defenses—if that is the Axis goal.

Greece closely watched her Albanian border where thousands of Fascist troops have been concentrated.

General Staff Officers Arrive

BUCHAREST —(INS)— While war planes roared overhead in perfect formation, a delegation of the German general staff arrived in Bucharest this afternoon.

Amid mounting tension resulting from entry of Nazi forces in Rumania, and with reports current that Soviet Russia is building five air bases near the Rumanian frontier, arrival of the officers clearly indicated some sharp new change in the status of this country.

The delegation was headed by General Hossel, who was accompanied by forty staff officers.

An honorary detachment of the Nazi Iron Guards saluted the German officers as the latter stepped briskly from the train and sang the Horst Wessel song in their honor.

There was nothing unexpected or officially unwelcome about the visit.

A Rumanian general in the colorful uniform of King Michael's army was on hand to greet the officers on behalf of Premier General Ion Antonescu. German minister Wilhelm Fabricius, wearing a Nazi uniform, and the diplomatic envoys of Italy and Japan also were present.

General Hansen, accompanied by the Rumanian officer who greeted him, was taken to Premier Antonescu's house.

Hansen and the premier conversed briefly, after which Hansen went to the German legation.

An official communique had been promised but had not been issued up to the middle of the afternoon, leaving the population of Bucharest astounded by the appearance of the Nazi officers.

Meanwhile, reports of Soviet air force preparations in the former eastern areas of Rumania aroused widespread speculation.

The Russian airdromes are being built in Bessarabia, which recently was ceded to the U. S. S. R. by the Bucharest government, the reports stated. The airports were said to include a large base at Horecea capable of accommodating some 300 warplanes.

(Editore note: In Berlin authoritative German quarters stated that the Reich, acting through diplomatic channels, notified Russia in advance of German plans for a military move in Rumania, in accordance with the Vienna arbitration agreement.)

It was stated on high authority, meanwhile, that the first detachments of German military "instructors" arrived in Bucharest at noon yesterday, and that air force instructor groups are due today.

The British minister to Bucharest, Sir Reginald Hoare, advised Britons to leave the country immediately. This advice was handed out after 150 Rumanian-piloted German and Italian planes flew over the Rumanian capital, some of them swooping low over the British legation.

With a formal severance of Anglo-Rumanian diplomatic relations expected hourly, part of the British legation staff already was enroute out of the country. Some members of the staff went to the Black sea port of Constanza, where the entire staff, including the minister, are expected to sail Monday for Istanbul.

Sir Reginald conferred with United States Minister Gunther and it was reported arrangements were made for the American legation to look after British interests in Rumania.

Great quantities of German war equipment, including tanks and planes, were reported moving into Rumania along with officers and soldiers by railroad and aboard barges moving down the Danube.

Turkey and Greece were regarded as the eventual objectives of the German moves.

Explanation Given by Nazis

BERLIN —(INS)— The special trainload of German staff officers which arrived in Bucharest at noon today consisted of a "German military mission which will assist in the future training of the Rumanian army at the request of the Rumanian government," the official Nazi news agency, DNB, stated this afternoon.

FLIERS CHASED IN BEESKRIEG

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(U.P.)—A beeskrieg whipped the U. S. army air force at Maxwell Field.

A swarm of bees settled down on the stabilizer of a photographic plane at the Southeast Air Center and remained for several hours master of the situation, stinging several braver hearts who sought to resist them.

Staff Sergt. William D. Bridges finally saved the day and a modicum of the army's honor when he lured the bees away with a hive.

been destroyed since July 1, including 2,900 fighters and 1,050 heavy and light bombers.

During last night's raids, a German announcement said, the Nazi bombers encountered "significantly weak" resistance from British fighting planes and anti-aircraft batteries. All the German planes were said to have returned to their bases.

The German announcement said the Canada and Alexandria docks at Liverpool were heavily bombed and that widespread fires resulted from direct hits on large refrigerating stores.

It was claimed that an extensive conflagration was caused in London, including a blaze in the center of the city which helped the German pilots find their targets.

Gasworks at Manchester and nearby troop camps were bombed, the announcement stated, and two steamers, one of 8,000 tons and the other of 6,000 tons, were disabled in a bombing raid on a shipping convoy.

The Germans also claimed that a "small-scale RAF attempt to raid Berlin again was frustrated during the night."

One town in western Germany was bombed, this statement said, but no essential material damage resulted.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

There was a bitterness in Philip Veritzen's voice as he spoke about Mary's escapade as a masked dancer which I knew was subconscious. But I also knew it reflected the cold anger he had felt toward her in that long ago time when through the machinations of Grace Draper and Jack Leslie she had disobeyed his strict commands for her routine as a potential Veritzen star, and, unknown to him, indeed to anyone of us who loved her so dearly, had gone secretly to the cabaret where Jack Leslie was an entertainer, and danced there, masked.

She had paid dearly for her indiscretion and her disobedience, our lovely, winsome and willful Mary. Jack Leslie's evil sated eyes had looked on her covetously, whether from desire, or because of his secret hatred of Noel, who as a violinist in the same cafe had openly betrayed his love for Mary. Only the bravery of Noel, and the wisdom of Hugh Grantland had saved her from Jack Leslie's plot to compel her to marry him.

"If Mary had been anyone else under my training," Philip Veritzen's weary voice went on, "I should have dismissed her without hesitation and with a finality which would have barred her forever from the Veritzen productions. But I sensed Noel's overweening interest in her, and realized that harshness to her would probably mean hastening a marriage which I swore to myself never should take place.

"There was but one thing for me to do, I decided, and that was to pretend ignorance of the whole affair, and go on as if nothing had happened. But when I realized that Noel's interest in Mary was increasing, the last vestige of sanity as regarded my son's affairs vanished. It sounds absurd—unbelievable, but I have no clear recollection of the events of the next year."

For, in those days so filled with horror for Mary, Jack Leslie had unexpectedly come back to New York in spite of the decree of banishment which Hugh Grantland had put upon him. Then he had tried again to entrap her into a situation which would have made Noel believe intolerable things of her. At that time we had feared, from a preponderant weight of evidence, that Philip Veritzen had been instrumental in bringing Leslie back to this country—and that the impresario had instigated the devilish plot against Mary. Then had come a murderous assault upon Noel by Leslie and we never had been able to determine whether or not Veritzen had engineered that also—because it was so difficult to believe.

We finally had taken refuge in the belief that the great impresario must have been temporarily mad, and that the shock of Noel's wounding and narrow escape had brought him back to sanity.

"At last I began to come back to myself," Philip Veritzen went on, "slowly, with infinite pains, always trying to let no one discover I was doing it. I pieced together, with the aid of my returning memory, many of the events of my lost year. I found that I had not changed identities—my ailment was not the kind of amnesia that leads a man to forget his name—and that, as far as my theatrical organization went, I had carried on my various activities as usual. On only one subject was my mind a blank. I knew that Noel had been the victim of an attack, but that was all.

"But I remembered something else from a time prior to the masked dancer affair. Jack Leslie had come to me and offered to clear Noel of the charge which had caused his expulsion from college, in return for my pledge to aid him if he ever got into difficulties with the authorities. It seemed a small thing in return for Noel's clearing, and for a long time, I heard nothing more of Leslie.

"But one conviction forced itself upon me. The obsession that Noel must not marry Mary which was still mine, had been with me during my year of madness and forgetfulness. I feared that I might have been guilty of some dastardly act which had been blotted out of my memory. The fear has been with me ever since, but not strong enough to keep me from employing every possible expedient to prevent their marriage. I'm aware you knew of those efforts."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and make sure that tires, brakes and lights are in good condition.

Wonder if Mansfield would have as much trouble in finding space for an air raid shelter as it has had in locating a public parking lot?

It is estimated that a fourth of this country's population is in school—not including millions of adults being taught by Experience.

Discovery, Exploration, Development

TODAY is being observed as Discovery Day, it having been on this date in 1492 that Italian-born Christopher Columbus, sailing under Spanish sponsorship, sighted land which turned out to be the eastern fringe of the Western Hemisphere—instead of a projection of Asia, which he believed it to be.

No practical importance attaches to the never-ending controversy over prior "discoveries" of America, as it was the first voyage of Columbus that resulted in later exploratory trips across the Atlantic ocean and a mad scramble of European nations to grab off a piece of the "new world" which had unexpectedly opened before their amazed eyes.

The period of exploration brought many adventurers from Italy, Spain, France, Germany, England, Holland and Portugal—each making a contribution and an impress on early history, which, in some instances, has continued through to the present.

Out of this heterogeneous mass, through revolution, seizure, compromise and purchase, there was finally developed what is now the United States of America, operating under a Constitution planned to safeguard individual and minority liberties, establish equality of opportunity and make the processes of government responsive to the wishes of a majority of the people.

As an independent nation the United States has overcome tremendous difficulties and progressed amazingly during a century and a half—even more notably within the past half century.

But, as viewed by the present totalitarian dictators of Europe, democracy has failed and there is belief among them that a new era of exploration is at hand, designed to spread Nazi, Fascist and Communist "civilization" in the United States and throughout the Western Hemisphere.

To these overtures, and threats alike, the people of the United States reply, "No, thank you—we prefer to continue our experiment of self government, and, if necessary, we will fight to preserve our way of life, which we believe better than that existing anywhere else on earth."

We appreciate the helpfulness of Christopher Columbus in running across this hemisphere while he was voyaging in 1492, but dispute the claims of European or Asiatic aggressors to any territorial rights that they do not now have in the Western Hemisphere. And, much as we despise war and love peace, we are now preparing to meet military force with superior defensive force, if compelled to do so.

Volunteer Registrars Needed

NEXT WEDNESDAY, October 16, is the day on which men between the ages of 21 and 35 are to register under the Selective Service Act.

All precinct voting places in Mansfield and Richland county will be open for registration from 7 in the morning until 9 at night.

Those who serve as registrars will receive no pay for their day's work—it is a service to their country.

More unpaid volunteer workers are needed than are now available, according to election board officials who are supervising the registration arrangements.

"Without pay" means without payment in money—for actual "pay" will probably be greater than ordinarily received for a day's work . . . in the satisfaction gained by giving a few hours of personal service for the national welfare.

Persons who will have spare time next Wednesday—either all day or a part of the afternoon and evening—are asked to list their name and address with the board of elections (basement of the court house, telephone Canal 1280) and offer their services.

Don't assume that someone else will do this—there'd better be more than are needed than not enough.

English as It is Spoken

ACCORDING to columnist Ted Robinson, writing in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Wendell Willkie in his recent address there said "guvment" for government, "Unine States" for United States, "execative" for executive, "plitical" for political, "totalitairrn" for totalitarian and "ee-fective" for effective. The columnist might have added that the mayor of Cleveland, a college graduate running for the U. S. senate, says "Uhiuh" for Ohio and "Cogga" river for Cuyahoga.

These are, of course, superficial things. Mr. Willkie is an educated man who seems to have succumbed unconsciously to the siren sounds of his native Hoosier speech. Or he may be well aware of it, consciously using his Indiana dialect to show that his homespun, middle-west attitude is genuine.

Whatever the reason, most Americans, including careless speakers, probably prefer to have their statesmen use what the British people call "the King's English." And this in spite of the fact that most of us are careless about our own speech.

Such sloppiness, sad to say, seems to be increasing. Any evening you can hear scores of mispronunciations and wrong usages from radio speakers and college graduates seem almost as bad as the others.

Earnings and Living Costs

A RECENT SURVEY by the United Press indicates that the war and our own preparedness activities have not had much effect on the cost of living so far. While costs rose 5 per cent in the last year, wages and salaries rose more than that, so that consumers in general have more buying power and are better off.

Hourly earnings have not risen much, but so many workers are working longer hours that there is more income per week. Then large numbers of those formerly idle have been employed, so that earning and spending power among working groups is considerably higher.

Similar reports have been made by the National Industrial Conference Board. Employers, of course, are profiting by the increase in orders and the larger turn-over, but the benefits seem to be spread around among employers and workers more uniformly than usual.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Larry Nixon who has been telling people for five years how to take a vacation (American Traveler, Vagabond Voyaging, and his latest, See Canada Next) is going to take one himself soon—his first in seven years.

The reason he hasn't had a vacation is that he's been too busy as a literary agent, as editor and publisher at one time or another of goodness knows how many magazines, too busy writing his travel books and too busy ghosting books for rather well-known people.

His four ghosts have been on such subjects as finance, the science of radio broadcasting, swing music and a biography. You'd be surprised at several of the names.

HE WAS publisher of "Air Transportation," a news weekly, and once edited even the "Peanut Promoter." He now is working on a "Handbook for Escapists" which he says tells everybody how to get away from it all no matter who he is or where he wants to go or what he wants to get away from. It sounds like a large subject, but Larry is a large man—225 pounds, age 43—and has this weight behind him, not to mention no little experience in escaping this and that himself. His life is one romance after another—one colorful job after another.

Larry is the man who 15 years ago managed to get every U. S. and Canadian radio station to shut down one hour a night for a week so that American listeners could tune in European stations. He was the only man who accomplished such a thing.

During the World war he was an apprentice seaman in the navy. He learned his ABC's from a type case in his father's newspaper office in Crowley, La., where he was born. His father was editor of the Crowley "Signal."

Larry's first publicity job came at 17, when he started off with a carnival and his first reportorial job was promotion stories for the advertising department of a newspaper in Jennings, La.

HE BEGAN his "travels" when he went to work in the circulation department of the Birmingham News—traveling around the immediate section for $12 a week and $1 a day expenses. He's been traveling—but in a different way ever since. He's lived all over the country, and still is an expert compositor although right now he is dong publicity for the Bell Telephone company at the World's Fair.

He wrote his first book "Vagabond Voyaging" under considerable pressure—physical pressure, as it were. Octavus Roy Cohen saw several articles on freighter travel Larry had done and told Larry he should do a book on the subject. Larry said no. Cohen said yes. That went on until Cohen locked Larry in his apartment, threw a batch of paper at him and said "write." Larry wrote. Vagabond Voyaging went into more than half a dozen editions and still is selling after four years.

TALE OF TWO CITIES

Many 'Undecided' In Poll Queries

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Is there going to be a big "silent vote" this year? That question is often propounded in political campaigns, but this year it seems to be of more than normal interest.

For instance, the very large percentage of persons in every one of the polls who refuse to tell how they are going to vote, or say they have not made up their minds. Then there is the curious fact that more women than men are registered in a surprising number of communities, including some big cities.

Now it stands to reason that no such percentage of people who are classified in the various polls as "undecided" are really undecided. It is not that they have not made up their minds—a very large percentage of them. It is that they are not willing to SAY how they are going to vote.

There are two curiously conflicting elements in any poll that has EVER been taken. They were true of the old "New York Herald" poll, which was the "Bible" on political trends until it went so sour in 1916 and was discontinued. They were true of the "Literary Digest" poll, which was the last word until it "blew up" in 1936. They are true of the present polls, and will be true of any future polls that may ever be taken.

ONE of these is that any one enthusiastic for his or her candidate wants to make the best showing possible. A number of these people know that the important thing about any poll is usually the CHANGE from the last election.

For instance, if a person polled this year says he is going to vote for Roosevelt, the really important thing about this is whether he voted for Roosevelt or Landon four years ago. This percentage of gains and losses, carefully tabulated, is what has made a number of local polls so accurate in indicating the trend over a long period of years.

So if a man is enthusiastic enough about Roosevelt, he may tell whoever is taking the poll that he voted for Landon four years ago, thus making his vote in the poll count for a lot more as showing Roosevelt strength than if he admitted that he voted for Roosevelt four years ago.

Similarly a man who actually voted for Landon four years ago, and is going to vote for Willkie this year, may tell the person polling him that he voted for Roosevelt four years ago. By so doing he helps indicate a Willkie trend.

This has become so well known that actually the efficiency of the poll in indicating a trend is NOT NEARLY SO GOOD as it was some years back, say prior to 1920.

BUT when a man or woman REFUSES to say how he or she is going to vote, that is a horse of another color!

This tends somewhat to offset the other factor of inaccuracy in indicating a trend. There are various motives for a person refusing to tell, but the net result of it all is to impair the accuracy of the poll.

Some of the slight Republican hope in 1936 was based on this factor. The G. O. P. leaders thought that a great many persons were going to vote for Landon, but were AFRAID to say so lest they be taken off the W. P. A. or relief rolls.

There are some who have the same feeling today. Their theory is that while this did not prove to be true four years ago, the passage of so much time without real recovery, and without the opening up of real jobs, has convinced this unfortunate class that the New Deal will never be able to give them the opportunity they want.

Of course there is no possible way of any poll checking on the accuracy or inaccuracy of this contention.

But it remains astonishing the very large number of persons who refuse to say how they are going to vote.

Military Training

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU'VE been wondering how Young America feels about this "peace time draft," haven't you? Well, here's one boy's answer.

This writer edits a Young America column, receives on an average from 500 to 1000 letters daily from under-thirty Americans of every station. None approves of entry into European war, but 99 9-10 per cent enthusiastically endorse military training, believe it's a good investment of time and energy even though it may mean separation from sweethearts, brides, babies and jobs. However, now and then, comes a protest like the following from Reynold Phillips of Seattle, Wash. If you want to keep up with your tumultuous times, here's a blast as vital as any broadcast:

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"You'd like an opinion of military training. Here's mine. I had R. O. T. C. training in college. I've learned the proper way to throw a grenade. I've learned how to fire a rifle and a machine gun. I've learned that if you shoot a man in the chest, you are most apt to kill him instantly; if you shoot him in the stomach you will bring him a slower and more painful death, and either way is all right.

"During this time I've heard many arguments to the effect that military training is helpful to the individual, but I fail to see that it has improved me physically, mentally or morally. One can get physical developement much more quickly by playing basketball or handball, or just by taking a daily walk around the block. Some say that military training will prevent the mind from becoming stagnant and sluggish. I know better ways of doing this. One of them is schoolwork; another is athletics.

"I THINK OUR AMERICAN DEMOCRACY WILL HAVE BECOME PRETTY DEGRADED WHEN WE MUST TRAIN OUR HIGH SCHOOL BOYS IN THE FINE ART OF KILLING OTHER HIGH SCHOOL BOYS."

Reynold Phillips—Age 23,
4715 Fourth Ave., N. E.
Seattle, Washington.

That's an honest and courageous letter. And millions will agree that much of our military education sickens the flesh and scars the heart of any sensitive boy.

BUT HAVE YOU EVER CONSIDERED, SON, WHAT HAPPENS TO THE SPIRIT OF THE FELLOW WHO DODGES SUCH TRAINING AT A TIME WHEN HIS COUNTRY IS FIGHTING FOR ITS EXISTENCE AND THE PRINCIPLES FOR WHICH IT STANDS?

I admit that it's loathesome to contemplate shooting a man in the chest or stomach.

BUT IT'S INFINITELY MORE LOATHESOME TO STAND BACK WHILE THE GREATEST DREAM HUMANITY HAS EVER CONCEIVED IS BLASTED TO SMITHEREENS!

I'm not saying that we Americans—or our American way of life—are perfect. Frankly, we've committed many a cruel, unfair and unworthy act. And will probably do so again. But the ideals on which our government is based aren't unfair or unworthy. They are noble and generous. They should command every man's respect . . . justify any man's martyrdom!

American Democracy isn't merely a form of government. It's a constant challenge to all that's best and bravest in every man. You can evade that challenge if you wish and find a way to save your skin. But suppose you do? What price security if a man pays for it with his soul?

Remember, this isn't a question of one man's preference or prejudice. You have a DUTY as well as a DESIRE; a DEBT as well as a DOUBT to consider. You owe a debt to all who have made your present life pleasant and profitable . . . to the thousands of brave men who gave their lives without question that you might live in freedom and security. Now again the challenge has arisen. Once more, the brutal and greedy are sneering at our faith . . . once more they threaten to reduce our future generations to the level of regimented robots. Your fathers died to prevent such a fate for you.

And you think it was all foolishness, yes? And you're sure that you, personally, could profit more by playing checkers or batting a tennis ball? Oh, yeah!

YOU'VE GOT ANOTHER THINK COMING!

Timely Editorial

Economic Stability a Necessity.

Mr. Willkie's emphasis on the fact that the rebuilding of our domestic economy is no less essential to this country's welfare than the creation of defensive armament, was timely and constructive.

We must put ourselves, as Mr. Willkie says, in a state of armed preparedness so strong that no dictator will dare to strike us. The productiive forces of the nation are now being keyed to bring into being physical safeguards on a mammoth scale.

But defensive armament, to be certain guarantee of national protection, must rest upon a strong foundation of economic security. Sound government finances are an inescapable requirement for the highest development of preparedness in all lines. It may be said, without overstating the issue, that the present federal fiscal situation does not represent all that could be hoped for in economic stability. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

Hitler Doesn't Like Roosevelt, Wouldn't Like Willkie Either

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

IT IS HARDLY a secret that Franklin Roosevelt is no friend of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

But when Henry Wallace and New York's Gov. Lehman suggested that the defeat of FDR would be a victory for the dictators, Republicans roared. Wendell Willkie said he didn't know what the Axis partners thought about the U. S. election because "I am not in their confidence" but insisted FDR had no monopoly on despising Nazism and Fascism.

On the front page of the pro-Willkie New York Times, however, appeared this statement by its crack Rome correspondent, Herbert Matthews, passed by censors:

The President Beamed.

"The Axis is out to defeat President Roosevelt . . . because of the president's foreign policy and because of everything he stands for in the eyes of the Italians and Germans."

Beaming, FDR read the dispatch at his press conference. The Times answered that the Axis would like Willkie no better than FDR.

Three days later Italy ordered Matthews to leave, for inventing a "fable" of Axis hostility to FDR. Matthews' explanation: "Roosevelt made a political issue of my story and the Axis feels it must answer."

Meanwhile Willkie whirled through the East and lambasted the New Deal in Hudson county, N. J., stronghold of Jersey City's Democratic Mayor Hague.

'A Puny Hitler'.

With Hague's police looking on he cried that Mayor Hague's Jersey City was the site of "the greatest bunch of corruption and racketeers that ever appeared in America." He called the pro-Roosevelt Hague "a puny Hitler."

After touring the region's poorer sections he commented: "Every vacant store window had pictures of my opponent . . . pasted in it. I don't know of any more appropriate place to put those pictures."

In New York City he demanded that FDR state if there are any international understandings about American entrance into the war that citizens don't know about. Then he invaded New England.

In Connecticut, he promised to help "little business" with revised taxes, less complicated regulations and public laboratories that small businessmen can use for a nominal fee.

Those Other Candidates.

To the left of the main political stage, two other nominees for president argued furiously American foreign policy.

Socialist Norman Thomas: "It appears that our frontier, which has been variously placed on the Rhine and on the English Channel, is now somewhere around Singapore or perhaps in Shanghai. Our entire trade with the Far East is not worth . . . one week of war."

"It would be a stable combination, for these countries have no rivalries or conflicting interests. It would be strategically powerful because it would immediately hold the keys to three continents. It would be physically strong, combining 700,000,000 population."

At Home

Justices Back on Job.

All in good health, the nine Supreme Court justices returned to work this week after their all-summer vacation. More than 500 cases confront them on the dockets. Here are three of the most significant:

1. The Justice Department contends that the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation made "unconscionable profits" during the World war and is seeking the right to regulate such profits on defense contracts.

2. The government is asking to be upheld in the right to collect triple damages under the anti-trust act from companies conspiring to fix "collusive" or exorbitant prices on products sold to the U. S.

3. Justices are asked to pass upon the constitutionality of the Wage-Hour Act.

Ford Gets Split Verdict.

Also, it appeared this week the court would be asked to take a stand on the drawn-out suit involving the Ford Motor company and the NLRB. Both sides are expected to appeal a decision Tuesday of the Sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals.

In that decision the court gave Henry Ford the tentative right to tell his workers, through pamphlets, what he thinks of labor unions, but agreed with NLRB that Ford had promoted the riot at the River Rouge plant in 1937, and that Ford should reinstate 22 workers allegedly discharged for union activities.

Pastor's Explanation.

"Why doesn't God stop Hitler?" Dr. Ralph Gilbert, retired moderator of the Nebraska Presbyterian Synod, offered an answer to this question which, he said, bothers many Christians.

"If God were arbitrarily to stamp out Hitler et al," he explained, "He would transform Himself into just that very kind of a ruthless dictator we so detest. It is we who have spoiled His glorious handiwork. It is we, as free moral agents, who must, with His help, restore it."

Abroad

Bribes and Threats.

Both fancy bribes and not very veiled threats were directed toward the United States this week.

Il Duce's up and coming spokesman, Mario Appelius, wrote that if we would stand by quietly while the British Empire was being razed we could well expect to be heir to Canada, Newfoundland, the Bahamas, Bermuda, Jamaica—and maybe even Australia and New Zealand.

But if we continue brashly to send material aid to England we'll find ourselves in an "inferior diplomatic condition" at the Axis-dictated peace conference and be discriminated against in future trade agreements.

Earlier, Japan's Premier Prince Konoye said we can do as we please with the entire Western Hemisphere if we "positively cooperate with the Axis' construction of a new world order." If we elect to challenge the Axis the partners will "fight to a finish."

Germany's 'Model' Soldiers.

Germany, meanwhile, was moving thousands of "model" soldiers into Rumania, ostensibly to guard the Rumanian oil fields against British sabotage. Also she prepared to help build large naval and air bases on the Black Sea.

British sources reported Adolf Hitler had insisted that his General Field Marshal Keitel take over command from Marshal Graziani of the Italian drive on Egypt which bogged down in September.

The air battles between Germany and Britain showed only scant let-up in this the fifth week of intense fighting.

The Pope on Modesty.

Many girls are risking their chastity by bowing down to the "tyranny of style." Pope Pius XI warned a group of Italian girls this week. Mode and modesty not only should, but can, go together as two sisters. He frowned on bobbed hair and advised young women to keep their faces free of "artifices."

Quotes

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., General Motors chairman, urges full productivity as a boon to defense: "A sound economy is just as essential to national defense as is defense material to national safety."

Judge C. C. Simons upholds the right of free speech for employers: "Unless the right of free speech is enjoyed by employers as well as employes, the guaranty of the first amendment is futile."

People

Dr. Butler's Edict.

Aging, portly Nicholas Murray Butler, world-minded president of Columbia University, called a mysterious "urgent" staff meeting. He told assembled professors of Columbia's part in the defense program and said Columbia had taken its stand in the war "between beasts and human beings."

If any present didn't agree with the stand he had outlined, he said, they should keep quiet or resign. Eighteen professors formally disagreed. They insisted an instructor's attitude on the war or foreign policy should not affect his status on the faculty.

To Feed, or Not to Feed.

Inside information reaching the agriculture department concerning Europe's food prospects for the winter (described by Herbert Hoover as the "rising tide of famine") is as follows:

Germany, Austria and former Czechoslovakia: Enough, if current rationing is continued.

Italy: Still more rigid rationing.

France, Belgium and former Poland: Desperate.

Normally generous Americans are pondering whether to send food. Fifteen prominent citizens—including Presidents Conant and Dodds of Harvard and Princeton—said no, this week. They believed that in "total war" such aid would only strengthen the conqueror.

How to Be a Genius.

Geniuses aren't born, they're made. That's the conclusion of a Bryn Mawr sociologist writing in the Sociological Review. Persons may become geniuses, he wrote, by successfully combining these factors:

(1) Having an obsessive interest in a subject, (2) studying long and hard, (3) getting in close contact with experts, (4) isolating themselves from everyday distractions, (5) striving for perfection.

In Short

Prepared: Draft officials, to register 16,000,000 men Oct. 16.

Offered: To Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, the post of draft administrator.

Died: Democratic Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois; Wilfred Grenfell, famed Labrador missionary.

D. A. R. CELEBRATES GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Jared Mansfield, Mary Washington Chapters Have Fitting Observations at City Tea Rooms; History Traced.

YESTERDAY was a gala day in patriotic circles with chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution all over the United States gathering to celebrate the golden jubilee of the organization. Both of the Mansfield chapters held dessert-luncheon meetings Friday, with the Jared Mansfield unit at the Women's Club, and the Mary Washington group at the Wickliffe Manor.

Mrs. Stanley Richardson, regent, and Mrs. B. L. Chase were hostesses at the Club, while Mrs. M. W. Manz, Mrs. C. G. Hillier, Mrs. C. F. Ackerman, Mrs. L. J. Bonar and Mrs. A. R Carter entertained at the Manor celebrating both the jubilee and the chapter's 45th anniversary.

Following the dessert course served from a table decorated with yellow and lavender flowers, and presided over by Mrs. Frances Scattergood, the group listened to the broadcast by Mrs. Henry M. Robert, jr., president general, speaking on "Golden Opportunities."

The traditional patriotic opening followed, and Mrs. John T. Shook, chaplain, led the devotions, after which Mrs. Richardson conducted the business meeting.

Reports of the joint meeting at Galion on Constitution day were given by Mrs. Brinkerhoff Spear and Mrs. R. W. Jones, and the district meeting in Bellefontaine last month was reported by Mrs. Shook and the regent.

Mrs. Richardson also announced the presentation of welfare contributions to the Cleveland Boy Scouts and to the work at Ellis Island. She then discussed the penny pines celebration which will be held at Gore Oct. 22, and arrangements were made to make an additional contribution and dedicate it to Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Barr, Galion, living guest granddaughter of the chapter.

Two new members, Mrs. Grover Swoyer and Mrs. John Lehman were accepted, and a gift of flowers from the Past Regents club was acknowledged.

Miss Henrietta Frank then took over the program, and presented Mrs. A. C. Tuttle who gave the history of the national society, and traced the terms of office of each president general. She also told of the impetus John Sherman had given the movement, and named the four founders, Mary Lockwood, Mary Desche, Eugenia Washington and Ellen Walworth.

A golden jubilee poem was read by Mrs. H. L. Princehorn, and Miss Frank gave the story of the accomplishments of the chapter since its organization 21 years ago. The singing of patriotic songs, with Mrs. J. H. Bristor as accompanist, was included on the program.

The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. at the Club on Nov. 1 with Mrs. Lamar Goard and Mrs. F. J. Gosser as hostesses.

Twenty-six members of the Mary Washington society were served at the Manor, and a feature of the refreshment table was a large cake commemorating both the golden jubilee and the chapter birthday. Flowers were used as decorations, and Mrs. R. G. Averill presided.

The program was in charge of Mrs. George L. Buchan, and Mrs. Hillier presented "Memoirs of the Chapter." The original chapter flag which had been made by charter members, and the scrapbooks were on display during the afternoon. Letters from the three charter members still living—Miss Mary Ellen Runyon, Oberlin, Mrs. Adelaide Brinkerhoff Lewis, Puerto Rico and Miss Mary Frances Day—were read.

Miss Runyon told in her letter how the chapter was organized as an outgrowth of the meeting of the Ohio Federation when Mrs. Elroy M. Avery, Cleveland, invited any women interested to meet with her at the R. L. Avery home. Miss Runyon suggested the name which is used by the group.

A paper from the national magazine was then read by Mrs. Fred Bristor, and Mrs. H. H. Sanford gave the retirement speech for the original flag.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 11 at the home of Mrs. Bristor with Mrs. J. E. Brown, Mrs. Sanford, Mrs. D. N. Feiser and Mrs. George J. Searle as associates.

Each member then presented a display of her hobby. Luncheon was served later at a table decorated with fall flowers and floating floral tapers. VALUE

The ancient Greeks, Romans and Egyptians considered glass more precious than gold. Today's glass prescription bottle or jar, an artistic triumph compared to the crude glass objects of ancient times, would have been priceless to them.

Quebec, Canada, was founded in 1608.

CHAPTER 8.

"I'm filthy," she said then. "I flew from Florida. I should have been here hours ago, but when we came down in Reno I missed my plane. A friend came down to see me at the airport and raced me off to look at some Seel-yum puppies. Adorable, but we were minutes late. Minutes. You can't do it, you know; they won't wait. Lovely woman, Cecily Baker—the candy Bakers. Millions. You're—Phil wired me he couldn't get hold of Miss Sanderson. You're Miss—"

"Britton. You're —— "Jocelyn was confused enough to add "Norma's mother?"

"Norma's mother! Darling, how sweet of you," said the lady. "I'm Phil's mother. I'm her grandmother. He told you to say that, I suppose? No: I saw her mother in New York, but Janet never will come out here. Hates it. So you're Miss Britton? I can see how Phil—" She paused.

Her voice died away into speculative murmur. "Dear boy!" she said fondly. "And that reminds me that I must call up Sally McIntosh. And I have to go to a dinner: isn't that repulsive? I need rest. I've not been in bed before 3 o'clock for two weeks; you know what Palm Beach is. Could you come upstairs with me now and I'll dictate a few telegrams to you. You'd be a duck if you would. You can telephone them in, and it means I can sleep late in the morning no matter what happens. There's only one thing—if a Colonel Dinsmore should call from Boston, I'd like to take that call, nothing else."

Jocelyn accompanied the mistress of the house upstairs, and inspected and was inspected in turn by the room maid and the personal maid. Mrs. Fordyce cast all her clothing about carelessly as she prepared for her bath, stepped into it unembarrassedly, and proceeded to dictate telegrams as she soaked luxuriously in the hot perfumed water. Immediately afterward she was rapidly assisted into an incredibly small amount of spangels and chiffon velvet, and seated herself with her rather small amount of reddish-grayish hair in sticky clipped confusion around her head.

"Stay and talk to me," she said, as curlers and cream began their work under the hands of Annette Burgier. Silken curls of gray and red were taken from a box; pins and bands were skillfully placed; presently a sort of mask of cotton and wire was removed from her face, and delicate pastes and powders were applied. Her browns were touched; her cheeks brushed lightly with peach color; her lips were carefully dyed, and a dog collar of blazing diamonds was taken from a traveling case and clasped about her soft, almost unwrinkled throat. "Not bad for an old stager who had supper last night in Palm Beach and played three rubbers afterward," she said with an oblique glance at Jocelyn that was almost a leer.

Jocelyn said what she honestly thought, not without a consciousness that the other would like to hear it, "you don't look a day more than 40."

"When I was 40," said Mrs. Fordyce, "I thought I was too old to live any longer. I dreaded 40. I cried on my 40th birthday. But what wouldn't I give to be 40 again! Sit up for me Annette," she added, "I'll not be late. You'll be unpacking anyway. Is Johnson there? Please telephone—perhaps you'd do that, Miss Britton? Please telephone to Mrs. Addington and tell her that I'm on my way."

A small fleet of cars had arrived at the garages that same afternoon. Jocelyn gathered that one of them was waiting, as the older woman swept downstairs and vanished into the night.

She went to her own room, just a little breathless, with her preconceived ideas somewhat shattered. She had visualized Philip Fordyce's mother as a gentle, beribboned and silk-skirted old lady, fine as porcelain and almost as breakable. To disover in her place this pretty, groomed, vivacious woman, with her beauty treatments and her interest in prize fights, was something of a shock.

She was quietly reading at 9 o'clock when there was a knock at her door. Jocelyn said, "Come in," and got up to meet her visitor. A rather stern-looking woman of perhaps 60 faced her, a plainly dressed person unmistakably rigid as to ideas, morals, and the corsets that supported her lean, erect form.

"I am Miss Sanderson," she announced.

"Oh? Oh, how do you do? I'm Jocelyn Britton."

"You're unquestionably a great many qualifications for handling a girl as difficult as Norma, Miss Britton, or you would not have been so suddenly put into this position here."

It was delivered sternly and evenly, as if she had rehearsed the unfriendly little speech on her way to the house.

"I came straight to you," said Miss Sanderson. "Lorenz asked if he could announce me: I said I thought not. Announce me! I know my way round this house. I know this family, through and through. I taught Norma's mother."

"I know Mr. Fordyce was trying to get in touch with you," Jocelyn said mildly. The opening guns had been fired.

"I was in Honolulu, and then with my niece in Glendale," said the visitor. "Yesterday I came up to the city and reported at once to Mr. Fordyce's office. He is in New York, and his stenographer believed that he had filled the position."

"He didn't hear from you," offered Jocelyn.

"They tell me he is in New York. When does he get back? When does his mother get here?"

"His mother is here. She got back tonight. She's gone out to a dinner."

"I'll have Lena make up a room and stay here tonight," announced the other woman, after a second's thought in which she seemed to forget Jocelyn's presence entirely. "I'll see Mrs. Fordyce in the morning."

"Would you like me to ring for Lena?"

"I'll ring for Lena!" Miss Sanderson suited the action to the word. "It has always been understood that when Norma finished school I should be her companion," she said. And then, with the first sign of human weakness that Jocelyn had perceived in her, she added, "What happened at the school in Florence?"

"She ran away. She climbed over a wall that had broken bottles on top of it, and cut herself quite badly. Now she's with her mother in New York, and the grandmother has just come back from Palm Beach."

"I know all that," Miss Sanderson said scornfully. "I'm sorry the misunderstanding has arisen. I'll see you tomorrow, Miss Britton, and we can clear the matter up then with Mrs. Fordyce."

* * *

She went away in the wake of a somewhat terrified-looking Lena, and Jocelyn tried to settle down again to her book. But it was not possible; the disturbing thought that this formidable old woman and that other preposterously frivolous and youthful one might conspire to put her out of this position, which she was so much enjoying, came between her and the words she tried to read, and she finally gave up the effort and went to bed because there was nothing else to do.

FDR PREPARES DEFENSE TALK

Speech Tonight at Dayton To Be Broadcast to Latin America.

his own country is doing to make itself invulnerable.

The immediate background of the address was a tour of defense facilities in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Concluding the first phase of a two-day trip into the neighbor states at Akron, O., last night, the president bespoke confidence that "we shall be able to avoid being brought into war through attack by somebody else on the Americas." He added, however, to thousands of persons packed around his train at the station, "but I also believe, and I think most of you do too, that the best way to avoid an attack is to be ready to meet one."

Today's presidential itinerary included a stop in Columbus, O., to visit Fort Hayes and look in on a low-cost housing project. At Dayton he was to inspect a veterans' hospital, the Wright memorial, the army's Wright field, and visit the home of Former James M. Cox, Democratic presidential candidate in 1920 when Mr. Roosevelt was the vice-presidential nominee.

The chief executive concentrated his attention yesterday on major steel mills in Pittsburgh and Youngstown

Essentially, he said, his was "a trip to educate myself, to learn about what is happening for national defense in this country."

But banners proclaiming his third term candidacy, tremendous crowds which split the air with greetings everywhere he went, and state and local politicians who trooped onto his special train and into his private car, gave something of a campaign flavor to the trip.

Both Republican and Democratic officials had been invited to join his party at different points, but it was mostly Democrats who showed up.

John W. Bricker, Ohio's Republican governor, signified his intention of accompanying the chief executive through Columbus, as did Floyd F. Green, the Republican mayor.

Arrangements were made for Martin L. Davey, former Democratic governor, who is running again for the same office, to greet the president at Columbus also.

1,200 Hear Bricker at Party Rally

man. A crowd estimated at 1,200 heard the talk.

Without mentioning the name of his Democratic opponent, Martin L. Davey, Gov. Bricker pointed to the contrasts between his administration and the two preceding ones when Davey was governor.

"It has been possible for us to give the citizens of Richland county greater service, without new or increased taxes, by reducing the operating cost of state government $5,500,000, by driving out the rackets, breaking the iron grasp of the 'hot-mix' ring, kicking out the truckless-truckers, and plugging the loop holes in the tax collecting machinery," the governor said.

He asserted that the state would have saved $700,000 a year on 'hot-mix' road materials during the preceding administration if it had paid the same price it is paying now.

"As we kept our promises two years ago, so shall we keep them these next two years," he said.

"It is more important now than ever before that state and national governments be operated economically, for we need every extra dollar for building defenses We would have had funds without so many extra taxes if the federal government hadn't wasted billions in the past seven years," Gov. Bricker added.

He told the crowd that Ohio has been the first state in the union in the past year in the amount of new business and revival of old industries.

"That's what it takes to put men back to work and bring back better times; the federal government can never pay enough out to WPA and PWA workers and to the farmers to bring about business recovery," he asserted.

"America is a favored nation—the last haven of the free and oppressed people—but if government becomes too costly and burdensome here there is danger that certain groups of people may turn to other forms of government."

Gov. Bricker said the state administration did a good job in barring the Communist ticket from the November ballot.

"I'm in favor of permanently barring any party or group that would overthrow our democratic government," he said.

Apparently referring to alleged coercion of old age pensioners by former Governor Davey, the governor said: "Pensioners can vote as they please while I'm governor and they will not be threatened with the loss of their pensions. I can't and won't fool the people by writing them a lot of trash in letters."

Congressman McGregor said the campaign this year is between "the Patriotic party and the Third-Term New Dealers."

He said as long as he is in Washington he "will never vote to send our boys to any foreign wars."

He repeated his statement that "this is the time for congress to stay in session to prevent the president from taking things too much in his own hands."

Congressman Bender urged the people to "wake up and realize what is going on in Washington."

"We hear people say President Roosevelt should be re-elected because he is kind to the poor people and has a sweeter radio voice than Wendell Willkie, the Republican candidate, but if keeping poor people poor by giving them doles and no decent jobs is being kind, then the president is kind," Bender said.

"The federal workers are so thick in Washington that their feet hang over the windows, and you are paying their salaries," he said.

C. K. Smaltz of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, introduced the Republican county candidates. Stuart H. Cramer, candidate for probate judge, spoke briefly in behalf of the Republican candidates on the judicial ticket, including Clinton D. Boyd, Gilbert Bettman, Edward C. Turner and Arthur H. Day for the Ohio supreme court ,and Clyde C. Sherick for the court of appeals.

Berlyn McCready, president of the Willkie-Bricker-Burton club, and Philip Wolfe, former state senator and Mansfield service-safety director, were in charge of the meeting. The Madison high school band played a concert preceding the talks.

Davey, Bricker Talk In Ashland

ASHLAND—Both major party gubernatorial candidates spoke here yesterday in rallies during the afternoon and evening.

Martin L. Davey, former governor and present Democratic candidate, spoke from the courthouse steps at 3:30 p. m. He was introduced by C. F. Culbertson, judge of the common pleas court. With Davey was his son, Martin, jr.

During the evening Governor John Bricker, Republican candidate, attended an ox roast held at the fairground and gave an address. He was introduced by R. B. Gardner, Mansfield.

In their speeches both candidates discussed state finances.

Dems Hear Talk, Plan For Caravan

Meeting last night at the courthouse, the Richland County Young Democratic club heard a talk by Burr Wade of Bellville and completed plans for a motor caravan to Mt. Vernon Oct. 17 for a 17th district Young Democratic rally.

Wade said the third term issue is a "Republican bogie." "The people," he said, "will exercise their franchise and express their free choice at the ballot box. Therein lies the difference between a democracy and a dictatorship.

"If you have a good, experienced president, why change in critical times?" he asked.

Miss Mary Newcomer, president of the club, said at least 50 cars will organize a caravan on South Diamond street at 6 p. m. the day of the Mt. Vernon rally and travel across the 17th district before the rally.

The caravan will stop at Bellville for 30 minutes to permit county candidates to make brief talks. Bellville, Butler, and Lexington will be visited in Richland county.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, October 13.

Sunday's horoscope is moderately propitious for all ecclesiastical and community affairs, which move happily and profitably. However, the mind may trend toward some conflicting or over-inflated ideas, which had best be submitted to sound considerations before putting grandiose plans into action.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of advancement and good fortune, provided they do not indulge in too flighty, inflated and opulent ideas or ambitions which might be falsely evaluated or overreaching. Be guided by sound values and wise counsel of elders or the experienced.

A child born on this day may be disposed to conflicting viewpoints on important matters, making wise decisions difficult, without the wisdom of its superiors. It will swing between the grandiose and opulent and pessimism and doubt.

For Monday, October 14.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively and exciting day with much enterprise and incitement to definite and drastic action, probably in connection with large corporations, political, or fraternal groups in which radical measures of wide scope may be projected. But changes may be needed and these should be calmly weighed, without impulse, strife or passion.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an exciting and productive year in which large issues of far reaching effect on political, fraternal or humanitarian groups are at stake. Refrain from quarrels, bitterness and impetuosity. Some unexpected changes may be in order, affecting surroundings, plans and contacts.

A child born on this day may have a vigorous, ardent, impetuous and ambitious nature, likely to be carried into strife, passion and self-undoing unless it be disciplined in restraint and good nature.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKING VICTORY SURE

IT IS WORTH wasting a trick in one suit to keep your opponents from getting two or more tricks in another suit. That is what you have a chance to do sometimes when you deliberately throw away a good card in order to knock an entry out of the dummy which may mean the killing off of a long suit there.

When West led the club J, East should have analyzed the problem more clearly than he did. He overtook the J properly with the A, but returned his remaining club to the Q. The declarer then led his heart J. West let it pass and took the second heart, returning the club 6 to the K. The declarer then ran his game, with the spade A, four hearts, a successful diamond finesse and the diamond A, whereupon East took the last two tricks with the spade K and the diamond K.

East had a way to beat the contract. If he had overtaken the club lead with his A, just as he did, he should then have attacked that important spade A in the dummy. The only card for him to lead them was the spade K. If the declarer took that with his A, he could get no more than three tricks in spades, one in hearts, two in diamonds and two in clubs, leaving him one short of his contract. If he let East win with the K, the next spade would have settled the A, and declarer still could have counted no more than eight tricks, since there was no way to develop more than on heart trick with an entryless dummy.

Your Week-End Lesson.

Do you understand the "progressive squeeze," whereby the declarer squeezes the same opponent twice, developing not one, but two extra tricks by means of it? Can you set up a hand on which such a play can be made?

Willkie asserted in Bosteon last night that President Roosevelt "says that Hitler and Mussolini would like to see him defeated this November. He does not say this directly x x x he insinuates it. He leaves the real job to his hand-picked candidate for vice president and his hand-picked governor of New York.

"Dragging the European war into our domestic elections is not a responsible act. It is a reckless one."

Late in the afternoon he had stopped at Harvard Square in Cambridge and told a crowd of students that the special train carrying President Roosevelt into Pennsylvania and Ohio was being financed partly by the public.

Willkie asserted that "this is no military inspection trip," because, he said, "the president took aboard in Pennsylvania the Democratic candidate for senator and other Democratic officials.

In a later speech at Lynn, Mass., Willkie contended that operation of the train was "a controvention of the Hatch act and the corrupt practices act."

That campaign tour," he said, "under the guise of a military inspection tour is playing politics with the defense of the United States.

THEATERS

Romantic Background.

The historical picture "The Howards of Virginia," comes today to the Ohio, co-starring Cary Grant and Martha Scott. Strange rumblings disturbed America in 1750 and out on the frontier were men who thought they were better than the gentlemen of the country and were anxious to prove it. From the mountains came Matt Howard and from a Williamsburg mansion came Jane Peyton, to meet and love and fight for liberty and happiness.

Radio's Comedians.

"Comin' Round the Mountain," the comedy attraction at the Madison, has an all-star cast headed by Bob Burns and the homespun philosophy of radio's Uncle Ezra, of the powerful little fivewatter down in Rosedale. Others in the cast are Jerry (Yahoodi) Colona, the villian who doesn't do right by Nell, who in this case is Una Merkel. Co-feature is "The Gay Caballero," starring Cesar Romero.

Comedy and Mystery.

Also in the comedy vein is "Scatterbrain" starting Sunday at the Park. Judy Canova has the lead, supported by Alan Mowbray, Ruth Donnelly, Luis Alberni and Eddie Foy, jr. "The Lone Wolf Meets a Lady" is the second attraction and stars Warren William, Jean Muir and Eric Blore. It is based on a story by Louis Joseph Vance, and tells of the fascinating rouge of fiction who steals jewelry and hearts.

Eddie Cantor as Professor.

The story of "Forty Little Mothers," coming Sunday at the Ritz, stars Eddie Cantor, Judith Anderson, Ralph Morgan and Bonita Granville. The comedian plays an earnest timid professor in a role of human interest. Hundreds of pranks are played on the professor by the boarding-school girls he teaches. Co-feature is "Dead End Kids" and "Little Tough Guys" in "You're Not So Tough."

Fleming Runs Wild as Blue Streaks Trip Mansfield

Scores 3 Times Against Tygers In 32 to 21 Win

Halfback Hit Pay Dirt on 53, 29 and Three-Yard Gallops In Thrilling Contest.

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor.

A SLIPPERY-HIPPED HALFBACK today is responsible for having blasted a fighting Mansfield high grid machine from the list of undefeated and untied Ohio scholastic elevens.

The lad is Ben Fleming, Sandusky high's triple-threat star, and he personally accounted for three touchdowns as his club registered a thrilling 32 to 21 decision over the Tygers before approximately 8,000 howling fans under the arcs at Sandusky last night. It was the Blue Streaks first win.

* * *

Mansfield entered the tussle as a slight favorite, but the club forgot to throttle the colored flash, who ran wild practically every time he carried the pigskin.

* * *

Twice the hard-hitting Tyger outfit held the advantage during the see-saw affray, but Fleming, always a problem for the Tygers, took things in hand and the Mansfielders were through.

It might have been a different story if penalties hadn't provided the Blue Streaks with their first two scoring opportunities.

The contest was a thriller from the fans' standpoint for neither club showed great defensive power and anytime a ball packer hit the line or swept the ends you couldn't tell whether he would end up with a loss or a touchdown.

Coach Paul Snyder's junior team showed more offensive punch than it had produced in winning its first four games.

The Tygers forged ahead by a 7 to 6 count in the initial quarter, fell behind, 12 to 6, at the half, and early in the third gained command of the situation again, 14 to 12.

But that was the last time the Mansfielders held the lead for Fleming and his teammates began shoving over markers with regularity.

Mansfield held the edge in nearly every department and it was up to Fleming to break away for two touchdown jaunts to turn the tide.

His first gallop came in the third period with Sandusky holding a 19 to 14 advantage. The halfback streaked around the Mansfield left end and eluded seven men to run 29 yards into pay dirt.

Hardly had the fans settled back in their seats after the next kickoff when Fleming got away for the longest run of the tilt.

Mansfield's attack bogged down on the Sandusky 38 and the Tygers punted to the Blue Streaks' 32. A 15-yard penalty against Mansfield placed the ball on the Sandusky 47. A line play and a pass failed to gain any ground.

Then Fleming tucked the pigskin under his arm and streaked around right end and reversed his field to score standing up. Fleming attempted to place kick all the Sandusky points, but made only one good. He kicked one in the third stanza, and in the fourth his wide kick was allowed on a Mansfield penalty.

The way the Mansfield team started out it looked like a rout. Taking Fleming's towering punt on the nine the Tygers started moving.

Five consecutive first downs placed the ball on the Sandusky 2-foot line and Martin Henke crashed through center for the first score of the affray. Snyder sent Adam Brandt into the game and he split the uprights to give the Tygers a 7 to 0 lead.

Jim Templetton, Elroy "Lightning" Jones and Henke sparked the goalward drive.

Sandusky drove to the Mansfield 18 after the kickoff and on third down a Mansfield penalty put the ball on the two-yard line. Fleming shot a pass to Farrar and it was ruled complete because of interference.

Babcock hit the line twice before he penetrated into pay dirt and the Blue Streaks were trailing, 7 to 6. Fleming's kick was low and wide.

Mansfield drove from its own 37 to the Sandusky 33, where the winners took over the pigskin on downs. Fleming again took command and in two plays, aided by a 15-yard penalty, placed the ball on the Mansfield two-yard stripe.

Fleming hit left tackle on the next play and went over. Again his kick was wide. Again the Tygers pounded away and had reached the Sandusky 35 when the half ended.

Trailing by a 12 to 7 count, Mansfield came out after the intermission and started moving. Jones set off the spark when he returned the kickoff from the Mansfield 23 to Sandusky's 43. Two rapid first downs found the Tygers on the winners' six. Bill Doolittle ploughed through on the second down and Brandt kicked the point to give Mansfield a 14 to 12 lead.

But from here on in it was Sandusky. Farrar hit center a little later for four yards and a touchdown. Fleming added the point and the Blue Streaks were in front to stay.

Fleming made sure his team would win with his two touchdown gallops shortly afterwards. After Sandusky piled up a 32 to 14 lead Mansfield drove 65 yards for its final score with Doolittle slashing over from the Sandusky two.

Mansfield put up a splendid fight. The only disadvantage was that they didn't have a man who could run with Fleming once he broke loose. The Tyger backs displayed potent power and the forward wall appeared stronger.

One Sandusky player was ejected from the game in the final period for slugging. It was a wild affair from the opening whistle. Several times the players of both teams piled on the ball carrier. The teams tried to come to blows as the contest ended, but the officials handled the situation and the clubs left the field in separate groups.

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

There were probably 150,000 wild horses in the 11 western states about 10 years ago. Now their number has been reduced to about 25,000, and it is predicted that within 5 years there will be less than 5000. Complete extinction is looked for in the near future.

Nighthawks always sit lengthwise on a branch, and never crosswise like other birds do. The reason is that these birds have small, weak feet.

W. S. Beden, a Lansing, Mich. insurance man, has a pig which he takes hunting with him. The pig retrieves game birds like a bird dog, having learned his field work with a springer spaniel. The reason for these unusual "doggie" traits are that this pig was the runt of the litter and was transferred to the care of a springer foster mother.

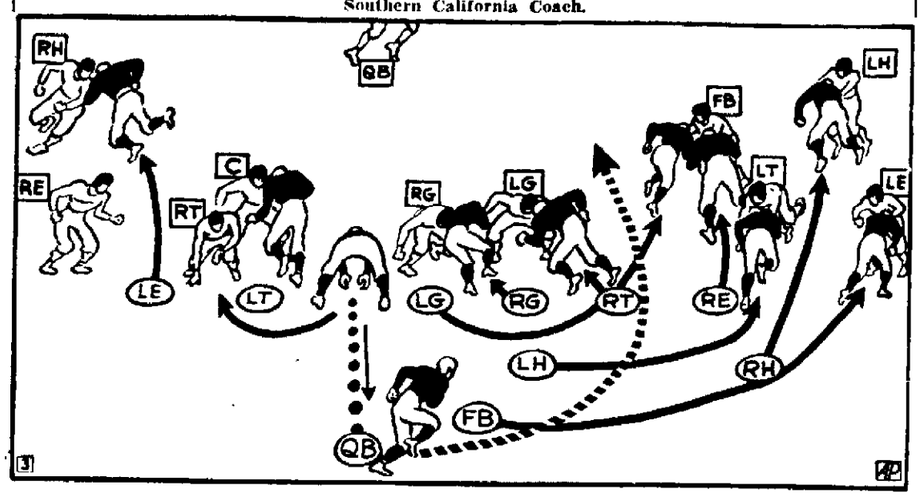
"I LIKE THIS PLAY"

By HOWARD JONES

Southern California Coach.



(Third In A Series)

The success of this play off tackle depends on the ability of the Trojans to single-handedly carry out their blocking assignments. Our right guard and tackle block the opposing guards to the left. Our left halfback and fullback block the left tackle and end toward the right. That produces a hole in the line and our left guard goes through to get the safety man, our right end takes out the fullback and our right halfback dumps the left halfback.

Rams Suffer 12-0 Loss to Undefeated Tiffin Junior Order.

By BOB FLOHR

ALTHOUGH strengthened by the return of several regulars, the Madison high school Rams failed again last night to get into the win column, dropping a 12 to 0 decision to a strong Tiffin Junior Order eleven under the lights on the Madison field for their fifth straight defeat of the season.

The victory was the fifth for Tiffin and kept that team among the list of undefeated and untied Ohio scholastic elevens.

Several of the Madison regulars who had not seen service since the first game of the season with Wooster because of their participation in a reported theft episode were back in the lineup last night.

After the game Coach Al Fendrick said that the players who had been suspended had all been reinstated and that everything was "all right" again at the school.

The Rams battled Tiffin on even terms in the first half with neither being able to score, but the Junior Order came back in the last half to score in the third and fourth periods.

Tiffin's first score came early in the third period after a drive which carried the ball from its own 18-yard stripe to Madison's four from where J. Collins went over for the tally. Davis failed to kick the extra point.

The second Tiffin touchdown was scored late in the fourth quarter on a 38-yard run by Perkins.

Tiffin regained the ball on its own 36-yard line on downs, and in five plays carried it to Madison's 38 from where Perkins scored. Perkins failed to kick the extra point.

Tiffin made 13 first downs and Madison 11.

Fans who attended the game were given an accurate account of time, yardage and downs on Madison's new scoreboard, used for the first time last night.

The board is electrically controlled from the new press box on the north side of the field, and is located at the west end of the field.

Woodville elementary school defeated Lincoln Heights 6 to 0 in a Madison township junior high school league game which preceded the Madison-Tiffin tilt.

Massillon Rips Alliance, 40-0

Tigers Run Wild Before 34,000 Spectators.

AKRON —(INS)— The Massillon high school grid eleven today added another smashing victory to their string—their 28th successive win—this time by trouncing the Alliance high team, 40 to 0.

A record breaking crowd of 34,000 witnessed the debacle in Akron's new Rubber Bowl last night.

* * *

After scoring early in the first period, the Tigers were held back by the stubborn Alliance eleven and it wasn't until the second period that the Tigers tallied again. They scored twice in the second period but the Alliance defensive play kept the Tigers from scoring in the third period.

* * *

Three more touchdowns in the final period completed the Tiger scoring spree.

Only once did the Alliance eleven make a serious threat to score, but the Tigers were equal to the situation. The Alliance team recovered a fumble on the Tigers' 6-yard line, but were able to gain only five yards on four line plays.

M'KINLEY SMOTHERS WARREN GRIDDERS, 34-0

CANTON—(INS)—Led by Athie Garrison, flashy Negro halfback, who scored three touchdowns, the Canton McKinley high school eleven today held a 34 to 0 win over the Warren Harding high gridders.

Garrison started the McKinley scoring by zigzagging his way down the field for 58 yards before he tallied. The second McKinley goal was scored by Garrison, who skirted end at the 27-yard line for a touchdown, and an aerial attack accounted for Canton's third score.

Baldwin-Wallace Win Over Carroll Sets Scoring Pace

(By Associated Press)

BALDWIN-WALLACE'S Yellow Jackets set the scoring pace for Ohio colleges in a five-game program Friday night with a 32 to 0 victory over John Carroll.

Bowling Green, Muskingum and Wilberforce also turned in wins, while Rio Grande was beaten.

The Yellow Jackets turned on the heat in the second and fourth periods in a game played in Cleveland's lakefront stadium. A blocked Carroll punt set the stage for the Jackets' first touchdown. George Morris going over from the three, a pass and an interception were good for two more scores in the second period.

In the last period a sustained drive and another pass brought the other two touchdowns.

Bowling Green defeated Findlay college, 14 to 7, in an Ohio conference game featured by a 40-yard touchdown run by Bowling Green's fleet Bob Brudzinski.

Muskingum turned on the "razzle dazzle" to defeat Washington and Jefferson in an intersectional game, 14 to 7.

Wilberforce traveled to Chicago to take an old rival, Tuskegee institute, 14-12. The two Negro schools fought on even terms, throughout but two points after touchdown gave the Ohioans the winning margin.

Rio Grande college lost to Transylvania, 20 to 0, at Lexington, Ky.

Today's football battles may see a leader in the Ohio conference, unless Capital can stop the Heidelberg Student Princes, the Tiffin eleven will be at the top of the pack.

Capital entertains Heidelberg in Columbus in the headliner of six conference tilts, part of a 19-game program involving Ohio colleges. Ohio Northern tackles Wittenberg at Springfield, Mount Union plays at Kent State, Ashland and Otterbein meet at Westerville, Marietta invades Kenton, and Wooster takes on Case at Cleveland.

Ohio States makes its first road trip to meet Northwestern at Evanston in one of the nation's top-flight contests.

Two old rivalries will be dusted off when Western Reserve clashes with Dayton there and the Marshall and Toledo powerhouse collide at the Lake Erie city.

* * *

Downtown Coaches Meet At Senior High Monday

The Downtown Coaches association will assemble at Mansfield Senior high gymnasium Monday night to discuss the Mansfield-Sandusky football game in which the Tygers were defeated the first time this season, 32 to 21. The members will also talk of the Massillon contest which will be played at Stadium field Friday, Oct. 25. Mansfield is idle next week. Joe G. Blahnik, association president, will be in charge of the session Monday.

Shelby Wins 5th Straight Grid Contest

Whippets Hand Crestline Third Defeat, 21 to 13.

CRESTLINE—Trailing at half time, 13 to 7, the Shelby high school Whippets rallied in the second half under the lights here last night to hand Crestline high school a 21 to 13 defeat and remain among Ohio's undefeated and untied scholastic elevens.

The victory was the fifth straight this year for the Whippets and avenged a whipping which they absorbed at the hands of the Crestline club which finished the 1939 season unbeaten and untied. It was Crestline's third straight defeat.

* * *

Crestline did all of its scoring in the second period. A pass from Fisher to Stump from the 18-yard stripe was good for the first score, and with but a half minute left to play in the second quarter, Fisher again passed to Stump who lateraled to Light for the second touchdown. Fisher kicked the extra point.

Bonecutter scored Shelby's first touchdown in the second period carrying the ball from the five-yard line. Daugherty's kick for extra point was good.

After recovering a Crestline fumble Laubie raced 21 yards for Shelby's second score in the third period. Daugherty again converted.

* * *

Another Crestline fumble set the stage for Shelby's final touchdown in the fourth period. Whitney scored after receiving a pass from Laubie. Daugherty again converted.

SOUTH CAROLINA LOSES TO DUQUESNE 27 TO 21

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — The Duquesne Dukes had a 27-21 victory over South Carolina's gamecocks today, but only after the visiting southerners had come within minutes and scant yards of breaking their host team's two-year winning record. Only 8,701 persons witnessed the game in Forbes field.

South Carolina scored one touchdown in the first period and two in the second. Duquesne scored in each quarter but missed the initial conversion. It was Ken Roskie's interception of a Duke pass in his own end zone and subsequent 68-yard run to the Duquesne 38 near the end of the game which gave the home team its scare.

PAM— Why? By A. W. Brewerton

'MORNING, PAM! - HOW'S EVERYTHING?
HELLO, ANN!
OKAY, I GUESS. HOW'S IT WITH YOU?
10-12
THE NEXT FEW DAYS PAM SAW ANN FREQUENTLY — BUT ANN NEVER MENTIONED BILL!
THAT'S FUNNY! - -AND BEFORE SHE TALKED ABOUT HIM ALL THE TIME! WONDER WHY?
THEY HAD LUNCH TOGETHER AGAIN ONE NOON. —
SWELL DAY, ISN'T IT?
GRAND
AND STILL NO MENTION OF ANN'S FRIEND!
MAYBE THIS PARAGON HAS DECIDED HE DOESN'T WANT TO MEET ME! —THAT WOULD BE EMBARRASSING FOR ANN!
IS THAT WHAT HAS HAPPENED? PAM'S CURIOSITY HAS CERTAINLY BEEN AROUSED!

Small Feminine Hiker Spends Six Weeks Carrying Pack on Cascade Summit.

LONGMIRE, Wash. —(U.P.)— A 104-pound feminine hiker spent six weeks on the rugged 450-mile summit of the Cascade mountains from Canada to Oregon, carrying a 30-pound pack.

But tiny Sue G. Doran of Portland, Ore., who is just five feet tall, found that her greatest exhaustion came when she shopped for a new pair of boots to replace those worn out on the first 300 miles of her trip.

She told Mount Rainier national park rangers that the search through stores virtually "exhausted" her.

Her long-planned trip began June 23. She wanted to get away from her routine job as a stenographer and aspect—but she uses shorthand for making notes in her diary. Many of her previous vacations had been spent on the trail.

For the first 10 days of her trip, the diet consisted entirely of a pemmican of honey, butter, dates, figs and nuts. Later this menu gave way to pancakes, cheese, chocolate, brown sugar, cereals, coffee and tea

Mrs. Doran carries only a tiny pack with sleeping bag and numerous articles tied outside—an axe, Boy Scout kit and extra clothing

Galion

GALION—One of three parties being given this week for Virginia Hocker, bride-elect of Paul Monroe, was a lovely affair Tuesday night when Mrs. Donald Snyder and Muriel Ricker entertained together at the Ricker home. There were 12 guests present who played bridge during the evening. When refreshments were served at small tables, individual miniature bouquets were presented to the guests. A message in Miss Hocker's bouquet told her where to find a large wedding bell under which were found the miscellaneous gifts from the group. Colors of pink, blue and white, were used in the appointments.

Miss Hocker will be gues of honor at a dinner party Wednesday night at Bemiller's when Eleanor Poister and Marybelle Swick will be hostesses. On Thursday night Mrs. Edward Hoekstra will entertain at her home in Ashland with a spinster party for Miss Hocker.

The nuptials will take place Saturday in a wedding at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hocker.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Afterthoughts, mostly irrelevant, on the debut of Jimmy Roosevelt's "soundies":

This is where we came in. This is where the movies came in, too. It's a little different. Then it was in arcades where your grandpa stooped over and peeped. He put in his penny or his nickel and he got an eyeful of this and that—until grandma, most likely, pulled at his coat-tails and said why-I-never, etc.

Now it's going to be in cocktail lounges, bowling alleys and the like, and grandpa won't have to stoop. He'll just sit there and guzzle or bowl and put in a dime and the flickers and music will be right there on a screen in a jukebox. The screen is 17¾ by 22½ inches, and you can see the pictures all right if you don't get farther than about 80 feet away.

For the more or less formal unveiling of the instrument Jimmy had readied his first reel—8 subjects a little less than three minutes each. (You puts in yer dime and you gets what's next on the reel—and likes it. Or if you don't like it, you can look the other way.)

No great stars for the big screen came out of the old peepshows. There was Annabelle the Dancer and some prizefighters and assorted "hot" dancers, but that was before the screen took to Mary Pickford and Broncho Billy Anderson and became colossal.

Maybe the soundies will turn over some talent to the biggies. In Jimmy's first reel there's Joy Hodges, who has done some full-screen movies, and there's Bernice Parks, who was in the stage hit "Meet the People," and there's Carmen D'Antonio, the dancer who burns things up at the local Pirate's Den. . . . They're nice little pictures, nicely staged and all that. . . .

After applauding the gadget, which is ingenious, some of us skeptics wondered what is the crying need they fill. They give three minutes of movie for a dime, and you can get two or three hours of movie (at some houses) for a dime plus a nickel. You can get the music in current jute-boxes (which are supposed to be replaced gradually) for a nickel. There are still a few places, too, where you can get absolute quiet—for nothing.

Not the least ingenious part of the device is the screen. It's of plastic material, unbreakable but washable. Bibulous patrons who express themselves by hurling things will find their beer mugs demilitarized.

The outfit that makes most of the jute-boxes expects to be putting out 30,000 "Panorams" the first year. Jimmy Roosevelt is supposed to turn out a new reel of eight subjects every week—colossal in a small way.

One of the experimental subjects is a 30-minute symphony, just to show that soundies can have culture too. The rest are music and dancing. . . .

What do these guys think, anyhow? Do they think the talkies are here to stay?
